Performance & Timing

- Data-feed dependent. The promise that labels and alerts appear “before the weekly bar closes” assumes normal TradingView® data-feed operation and internet connectivity. Outages or exchange halts can delay signals.
- No guaranteed results. Past performance and back-test statistics do not guarantee future outcomes. Signals are probabilistic decision-support tools only, not investment advice.

Reliability Disclaimer

- Data-feed interruptions e.g., TradingView discontinues or suspends any essential reference series.
- Liquidity fragmentation Exchange delistings, regional trading bans, or other events that distort unified price discovery.
- Regime shifts Sustained compressions or spikes in volatility, depth, or participant mix that fall outside prior norms.
- Persistent behavioral changes Long-lasting shifts in how capital circulates among major digital-asset segments.
- Off-label usage Running the script on unsupported symbols, synthetic feeds, or time frames outside recommended bounds.
