

FAQ

Common customer questions for the current customer release.

Does it guarantee tops or bottoms?

No. Markets can change, regimes can shift, and any model can fail. Treat labels, dashboards, and alerts as workflow inputs inside a written plan and always use risk management.

Do I need a specific chart setup?

Use the customer setup standard shown in the current product guide and setup cards. Use the supported 1W chart with regular candles unless the current customer documentation explicitly says otherwise.

Should I recreate alerts after updating?

Yes. TradingView alerts use the script version and settings that existed when the alert was created. After a material script update, delete and recreate alerts using the current version applied to the supported chart.

Is this investment advice?

No. AZRO Systems provides educational market tools and workflow materials only. You remain responsible for all decisions and outcomes.
